Personal information

We respect and guard our customers' information and privacy.

As a customer, we create a customer account with your personal information. Personal information e.g. name, address, phone number, email etc.

We use your personal information only in context with our business - i.e. sales, rating, billing, service etc.

Cookies

A cookie is a small collection of information stored on your computer. The cookie allows our web site to recognize your computer. Recognition can be used in relation to statistics and registration of your choices - for example when ordering online.

We use cookies for statistical purposes (e.g. to improve usability) and to record actions in our shop (such as when you put items in your shopping cart).

We use Google Analytics to keep statistics - a cookie and a JavaScript code collects information about page visits etc.

You can choose not to accept cookies by following directions provided in your browser, but please note that disabling cookies may cause website features not to work.
